—The law card of Mr. A. M.

crat-Star to-day. Mr. Dahlgren qualified to enter upon the practice of our acquaintance has a better moral character, and no one more trustworthy than he. In our judg-mark as a lawyer.

—We direct particular attention to the law card of Mr. Horace Bloomfield, of Handsboro, who was the profession, and after a thorough examination the committee reported Mr. Bloomfield well learned in the law and qualified to practice the law in the courts of this State.

for him a liberal support as he richly deserves it. dence, and in his testimony stated that Turner hired King Green and the other two above named to kill Capt. Davis. Turner and Dick King were placed under bonds for their appearance, and Mark was held as witness. King Green is now in jail in Mobile, serving out a sentence, and will be brought here for trial when his time is out there. He is the one who struck Capt. D. but the others were all implicated in the affair according to Mark's testimony.

the visiting ministers on Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Baptist and Methodist churches at Moss Point, and at the church at the Seashore and at the colored churches at Moss Point.
Preaching also at the Baptist church Sunday night, and perhaps at other places. The public is invited also to attend the business meetings of the association during the day.
—Monday night J. D. Davis, alias Hog Davis, who was confined in the jail at Bay St. Louis and who was convicted at the term of the court just over and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, escaped. He had a pocket knife and a bolt to work with, so his fellow-prisoners say, and succeeded in breaking both doors open. The high fence around the jail house he scaled over, and never left word where he was going. There were five other prisoners, all colored, confined with him, one of whom was George Charles already convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to five years hard labor in the penitentiary. They all however declined to leave under such circumstances, and next morning were found on top of the high jail fence impatiently waiting for their coffee.

his charming perfume Alista Bonquet, produces an exhilarating effect upon the mind. They are as fresh and sweet as the fields in hay-making time. None have used them but to admire.

Seranton Sunday-School.
Their Picnic Last Saturday—A Beautiful Day
Good Dinner, and Enjoyable Occasion SCRANTON, May 15, 1878.
EDITOR DEMOCRAT-STAR.—Saturday, May 10th, the day appointed for the Seranton Sunday-school picnic, dawned clear and beautiful, and no doubt many little children were up in time to see "God's glory lighting up the skies" as the pursuits of dawn gave way to the golden glory of the sun's first rays. At 9 o'clock the school assembled at the academy in order to the grounds, led by the superintendent. The Durel place on the Pascagoula river was the place selected, kindly placed at our disposal by Mr. E. G. Walker, and surely no better place could be found. The tall, grand old live oaks shielded us from the sun's rays and furnished support for several swings which were constantly swayed back and forth by the little ones. A beautiful grape arbor furnished a shady shade for the table which was long and substantially built, and also substantially laden with all kinds of nice things. I need not say that this part of the picnic received ample attention.
The children were waited on by a committee of ladies, who saw that even the smallest toddlers who could just see the top of the table were not overlooked. Grown folks and children all seemed to enjoy the dinner and to have an abundance.
The green grass and level yards made splendid croquet grounds and the four sets at the place were in continual use. The games must have been very attractive as one young gentleman was heard to remark that he had done nothing else but play croquet from an early hour in the morning until four o'clock in the afternoon, and even at that hour he was observed seated under an oak tree beside a young lady discussing the printed rules for croquet; at least they had the book between them, but whether croquet was the subject discussed or not is an open question. Another couple seemed to have some subject under consideration which required their undivided attention as they were discovered separated from the rest of the party seated on the high front gallery overlooking the bay. As they had sought the house no doubt they were studying architecture. In fact there were quite a number of young ladies and gentlemen present, and perhaps you know yourself, Mr.
Editor, that when such is the case they will stray off in pairs, and seek secluded places where all observed, the old sweet story may be told over again to willing ears.
Ah, the dear old story! so old, yet ever new. Was it whispered to beating hearts on Saturday?
The older ones enjoyed themselves in sociable crowds, and watching the merry children who seemed to be veritably "turned loose" for that one day. They seemed to abandon themselves to the enjoyment of the beautiful holiday; and yet it was all innocent mirth. The Sunday-school organ was on the grounds and was kept discussing sweet sounds most of the time. A good many visitors from other places were in attendance and received a warm welcome from the Serantonites.
Every one present seemed to enjoy the day, and the children no doubt went home thanking their teachers and loving their school more than ever, and above all thanking their Heavenly Father, from whom cometh every good and perfect gift, for this joyous day, and loving Him more than ever for the gift of his dear Son.
